Hiring Manager
Hiring Team
MSBU (Scalable New Future)

Dear Hiring Team,

I am applying for the Project Manager position for Telco & Digital Project (CL015-R014).

For eleven years I ran technology and trading operations at CITT Services, serving six international brokerage clients at the same time. That job was project management in everything but the title: I owned timelines and deliverables across concurrent engagements, tracked risk and dependencies, coordinated engineers and external vendors, and answered to client stakeholders when something slipped.

On the digital side I have led platform rollouts end to end, including an ERP implementation and several web platforms I built and shipped myself. I work comfortably with developers, analysts and QA because I have done that work, so I can read a technical blocker instead of waiting for someone to explain it. I also build my own progress dashboards, which means reporting is something I produce rather than something I chase.

What I bring to MSBU is a delivery owner who does not need a team around him to keep a project moving. I am used to being the single point of accountability: setting the cadence, keeping vendors honest, surfacing risk before it becomes an escalation, and giving stakeholders a view they can trust.

I have not worked inside a telco operator before, and I will not pretend otherwise. What I have done is deliver technology projects where external dependencies were the hard part: payment providers, KYC vendors, trading platforms and infrastructure partners. The coordination problem is the same shape.

I am based in Jakarta and available for work from the Gatot Subroto office. I would welcome the chance to discuss the project pipeline and how I can take ownership of delivery.

Warm regards,
