Hiring Manager

Hiring Team

Jobgether

Dear Hiring Team,

This role asks for someone who can build a technical support program from the ground up — the job I did for eleven years, running support for six global brokers where a missed escalation meant real client money. I have not worked in healthcare; I won't pretend otherwise. What I bring is the harder half: operating discipline in high-stakes environments.

Support operations leader with 11+ years running technical support for six global brokers, including Pepperstone and TitanFX. Built ticketing workflows, SLA frameworks, escalation protocols, and QA programs; led incident response where outages meant real money. Hands-on with Zendesk, Jira, and complex API/integration troubleshooting. Designs the KPIs, SOPs, and training that scale support teams.

Key achievements I'd bring to this role:

- Ran technical support for six global brokers over 11 years — enterprise clients, 69 markets
- Managed multiple support teams: coaching, training, and a continuous-improvement system
- Led incident response for trading-platform outages — root-cause analysis under real-money pressure

I'm particularly excited about the opportunity to work on building and scaling a technical support program from the ground up. My architecture philosophy centers on the fact that there are no right answers in architecture, only tradeoffs, and I make those tradeoffs deliberately, documented, and reversible.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my background aligns with your team's needs. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Warm regards,
