Hiring Manager

Hiring Team

PT Sarana Karyaputera Mandiri

Dear Hiring Team,

In a fast-growing company, IT is not a department. It is a leverage point: the roadmap that turns growth into systems instead of chaos, and the security that keeps customer trust intact. That is the exact work I have done for 11 years. I have led technology operations for companies serving demanding industrial clients, managed delivery of two end-to-end ERP implementations plus a legacy migration, and kept 24/7 platforms stable. I know how to run the full stack a growing business needs: servers and networks, access management and backups, vendor relationships, and enterprise applications on SQL Server and MySQL. I lead the way your description asks for: the roadmap first, with short wins that fund long ones. I have built training and coaching programs that lifted whole teams, because an IT Manager's job in a growing company is as much about capability as about technology. And I know the vendor side of the table well, from negotiating with providers to holding software partners to their deadlines. Sarana Karyaputera serves more than 200 customers in bottling, food, and pharmaceutical industries, sectors where reliability is not negotiable. I would bring the same standard to your infrastructure: dependable systems, hardened security, and a team that grows with the business. I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how I can support Sarana Karyaputera's growth. Warm regards, Bio Lumbantoruan
