Hiring Team

ZAP Clinic (PT. Zulu Alpha Papa)

Dear Hiring Team,

Somewhere between a customer's first message and her next booking, a 100-clinic beauty brand handles thousands of decisions a day. The brands that win the next five years will automate that path with AI while competitors are still assembling yesterday's report by hand. I would like to build that automation for ZAP. I work with AI tools every day, not as an enthusiast but as an operator. For my own e-commerce ventures I use AI daily for product content, campaign copy, customer insight, and reporting, and I build the automation underneath with n8n and Python, cutting manual processing by around 70 percent. In my technology career I have brought AI-assisted workflows into real operations, measured the results, and trained the teams who use them, hundreds of non-technical staff across countries. What I would bring to ZAP is the bridge this role asks for: fluent enough in the technology to build the workflow, and in the business to know which workflow is worth building. I understand customer-facing operations from 11 years in service environments, and I know that the last mile of any AI project is training people until the tool becomes a habit. If ZAP wants measurable lift in marketing performance and clinic operations, I would love to help make that real. Warm regards, Bio Lumbantoruan
